Overview: The programme will consist of the following components:

- A parent talk (Topic: Play – A Tool Parents Need to Use for Children’s Development) in English to be delivered by a speaker from the Education University of Hong Kong (EdUHK).

Overview:

It is commonly misconceived that children only need toys for play and that play is solely reserved for free time. The reality, however, is that play possesses significant educational value. This talk aims to debunk various myths surrounding play and emphasize its crucial role in children’s lives. During the talk, we will explore the unique aspects of free play, focusing on child initiative, involvement, and autonomy. Participants will gain a profound understanding of how free play nurtures children’s growth across multiple dimensions. Moreover, we will explore practical strategies for incorporating play-based learning activities into the home environment to effectively foster children’s development. Through demonstrations, participants will acquire valuable skills in fostering meaningful parent-child interactions and playtime at home. By the end of this talk, participants will be equipped with the knowledge to embrace play as a powerful tool for their children’s holistic development.

- A sharing session to be conducted by an NCS speaker to share her experience in learning the Chinese language and adapting to local school life.
- Activities and game booths to be arranged for NCS parents and children.
